PALM SUNDAY 29TH MARCH 2026

The “Songs of the Servant” in Isaiah invite us to see suffering not as meaningless but as something that can be united with God’s purpose. The Servant’s willingness to endure rejection and humiliation in obedience challenges us to remain faithful even when our beliefs cost us comfort, reputation, or security. In daily life, this may appear in standing for truth, showing kindness when it is not returned, or persevering through trials without losing trust in God.

The second reading finds its fullest expression in Jesus Christ, whose life embodies perfect humility and obedience. The early Christian hymn reminds us that true greatness is not found in power or status but in self-giving love. As followers of Christ, we are called to imitate this attitude serving others, putting aside pride, and trusting that God sees and honours even hidden sacrifices.

The Passion narratives further ground this message in real history and human experience. Jesus’ suffering shows that God is not distant from our pain but enters into it. His crucifixion reveals that love can endure even the worst injustice, and his exaltation assures us that suffering and death do not have the final word.

In our personal lives, this means embracing a faith that is active and resilient. Whether facing personal struggles, injustice, or moments of doubt, we are encouraged to respond with patience, forgiveness, and hope. Like the Servant, and ultimately like Christ, we are called to witness through both our faithfulness in hardship and our trust in God’s greater plan.
